U. S. LOANS TO EUROPE URGED

DELAY IN SENATE MAY AVERT TRIAL OF HOHENZOLLERN

BY EDWIN T. JAMES.
(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

PARIS, Jan. 11.—At a conference of Allied legal experts to consider plans for the trial of the former German Kaiser, it was stated today that the non-ratification by the United States of the Versailles treaty created a difficulty which must be solved. The treaty says the "Allied and associated powers" will arraign Kaiser Wilhelm II. of Hohenzollern for the supreme offense against international morality. Therefore, inasmuch as "the Allied and associated powers" today put the treaty into effect it is considered a legal question that they can demand extradition from Holland the treaty specifies that the former Kaiser is to be tried by a court composed of five judges, one appointed by each of the following powers: The United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

The question of the legal powers of such a court, lacking a permanent member, arises.

It is very similar to the question of the legality of the Rhineland commission without an American member. This was solved by sending the American from the commission.

The Supreme Court was again arranging today for calling on the Kaiser to hand over the accused German officers for trial.

A list of 1200 has been reduced to 700, including Prince of Prussia and Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria.

It is said this will be sent to the Dutch government.

It should be understood that, while France takes a very firm stand in the case of the German officers, French statesmen are not so sure of the advisability of trying William Hohenzollern in England, who is pushing the case against the former Kaiser. The list of Germans demanded will not be made until the Berlin government has exercised its best efforts to secure them.

GERMANS URGING TRIAL OF KAISER.

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

PARIS, Jan. 11.—Germans are urged to turn over for trial by the Allies in resolutions passed at a meeting of the New Fatherland League here today.

The treaty of Versailles, the resolutions said, "demands the trial of William II. It is, therefore, the duty of the German people to assist the treaty, and every attempt to prevent the trial of the former Kaiser must be branded as a political crime."

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Information received by the government today indicates that Carranza's policy is to establish a Bolshevik government in Mexico and to support the Bolsheviks in their efforts to conquer the United States. Carranza is reported to be in communication with the Bolsheviks in Mexico

Bryan's Logic that Issue Can Never Face Election Seems Irrefutable.

Rumblings from Democratic Newspapers may Precede Sensational Revolt.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—After many perorations of spokesmen for all factions, Republican leaders decided yesterday to apply the acid test to the Democratic Senators, and force them to choose between standing by President Wilson or following Bryan in the peace

treaty controversy.

Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, held a conference with Senator McNary of Oregon and Col. of Rhode Island, mild reservationists, and Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin.

They decided to reject the Democratic reservation program, submitted under the inspiration of Mr.

Bryan several days ago, and to call upon the Democrats to present a

"real" compromise along with a statement of the number of votes it would command on a showdown.

The Republicans look for a reply early next week. They hope to find sufficient Democrats in a state of revolt against President Wilson, and to force him to choose between standing by President Wilson or following Bryan in the peace

treaty controversy.

TAFT DEMANDS A BI-PARTISAN DEFEAT OF WILSON AND LODGE.

BY WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT.

Mr. Bryan's statement to the Democratic Senators in respect to the treaty will appeal to the country as full of common sense. No one can say that Mr. Bryan is not as sincere an advocate of international peace as President Wilson.

Mr. Wilson's letter has not helped those who are seeking to respond to the persistent demand of the country that the difference on the reservations be reconciled and compromised. Neither Mr. Lodge nor Mr. Wilson in his stiff and unyielding attitude has the support of his party or the people.

Both welcome making the question between them the issue in the next election; both exalt politics above the benefit of solving the present exigency for the country and the world, with a reasonable compromise.

The Republicans and Democrats in the Senate who do not choose to gratify them both by securing for them a favorite political issue in the November election at the expense of the world's peace and the country's prosperity and reconstruction should now resolve to ratify the League with reservations. Then, if Mr. Wilson refuses to do a plain duty in tendering the result to the other nations for their acceptance, the blame will fall where it will belong. We cannot think he will assume it.

BANDITS HOLD UP EIGHT.

Four highwaymen, operating in a stolen automobile, who have terrorized pedestrians on the west side, held up eight men late last night and escaped with $50 in cash, several watches and $100 worth of jewelry.

They held up Charles Uhlman of the Herman Film Company, Santa Monica, at Pico and Georgia streets, and took $15 and his watch. Then they sped to Sixteenth street and Magnolia avenue, where they robbed

A. E. Kerns of 1524 West Sixteenth street of $4 and a fountain pen.

The third victim was Fred Bennett of 1778 Gower street, whom they held up at Vine street and Hollywood boulevard, obtaining $4, a watch, a ring and a fountain pen.

Next on the bandits' list came Clarence McKee of 1924 North Broadway, who was robbed at Vermont avenue and Santa Monica boulevard of $15, his watch and an opal earring. The fifth man was D. R. Baine of 487 West Twenty-third street, whom they robbed at Twelfth street and Grand avenue of $4. H. J. Bleicher of 247 South Hill street was the sixth victim, losing $5, his watch and a diamond earring when held up at Second and Figueroa streets. A few minutes later the quartet of highwaymen held up J. C. Griffin of 487 West Twenty-eighth street and J. Dayton of 288 Beaudry avenue, at Second street and Beaudry avenue. From Mr.

Griffin they took $14 and from Mr. Dayton an amethyst earring.

The bandits first operated in a car which they had stolen from D. Mc-Closkey, whom they held up to take them out to El Monte. There they robbed him and held him on the head, and then they fled in the car.

Engine trouble developed early this morning, so they abandoned the car at Grand avenue and Tenth street and stole a Hudson supercar. Two uniformed men saw them and fired two bullets at them, but the men escaped.

"Forward Policy" Now Only Awaiting Word of Execution from President.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—High

officials here declare that "there will be a reckoning" with Mexico.

They say that a forward policy is waiting for execution on President

Wilson's recovery. Another cause for delay in aggressive action has been the unsolved European problem arising out of the incomplete state of peace negotiations.

But there is insistence that there is something at last to be done with respect to Mexico and its impossible conditions as related to the United States, and there are strong hints in some quarters of the probability of an American receivership over Mexico.

A Mexican receivership, it is suggested, would take the form of military intervention and occupation in its first stages, to be followed by American or joint Mexican and American administration of Mexican affairs for a term of years.

REAN ON MUNITIONS.

There is excellent reason to believe that more stringent regulations lately put into force to prevent the shipment of munitions of war into Mexico were intended to reduce to a minimum the danger that would follow a fresh civil war in that country as a result of the growing concern in the United States over the situation in Mexico. President Wilson's policy of peace has been the basis of the policy of the United States.

MONEY NEEDED TO WARD OFF CHAOS, BANKERS DECLARE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The United States must lend money to Europe for purely selfish reasons if for no other, in the opinion of the Committee on Foreign Trade of the American Economic Association. The loans, however, should be made through private channels and not by the government.

The view of the committee on the whole subject of foreign trade is set forth in a report made public tonight. The report was prepared after a study of the situation by a committee of ten, which included Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., David Friday of the University of Michigan, A. Barton Hepburn of the Chase National Bank, F. W. Taussig of the Tariff Commission and Elisha M. Friedman of the War Finance Corporation.

"Without food and raw materials," says the committee's report, "Europe may fall into chaos which may react upon us, industrially and perhaps politically. Europe must have our goods, and to get them she needs our credit."

"But for purely selfish reasons we must lend. To balance our international debits and credits, the courses before us are to curtail exports, increase imports or lend. Reduction of our exports seems inevitable. However, to curtail our foreign sales suddenly would mean stagnation of industry and consequent unemployment, although in some cases the satisfaction of demands at home, deferred during the war, would absorb the slack in production as prices decline. We cannot buy more, for Europe has less to sell than before the war. As a temporary expedient the course open to us is to lend."

The report asserts private means can be utilized through the Edge Act, establishment of investment trusts to purchase foreign securities and issue obligations based on these securities and listing on American stock exchanges of outstanding foreign securities.

Such loans are made to Europe, however, the committee emphasizes, should be devoted to industrial, not governmental use.

IMPOSE DEATH FOR SEDITION.

Agree on Stricter Bill for Reds.

Penalties for Activity Against Government.

Efforts to Eradicate "Parlor Bolshevik" Tribe.

BY A. F. HENRY WIRE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Speedy passage of a stringent sedition bill by Congress was promised today following passage yesterday of the Sterling bill. The House Judiciary Committee had passed a similar measure and the Senate is expected to follow suit. The bill would make it a crime to advocate the overthrow of the government by force or to conspire to do so. It also would impose severe penalties on anyone who aids or abets such activities.

What Will Happen When The Railroads Go Back?

Will lower wages, the present scale, or even higher wages, be paid to employees? Will freight and passenger rates be increased? Will the public enjoy better service? These are a few of the questions that are current in the minds of the American public since the announcement of President Wilson that the railroads will be returned to their owners on March 1st.

THE LITERARY DIGEST in its leading article in the issue of January 10th, presents a comprehensive survey of the railroad question. It gives the arguments pro and con for private control, for government ownership, for the installation of the Plumb plan, etc. The article is graphically illustrated with pertinent cartoons on various phases of the situation.

The injured man was hurried from his home where he had been taken to the St. Catherine Hospital at Santa Monica, where it was found that the cut was a dangerous one. His condition is said by physicians to be serious.

Burns on Indian Wins Twenty-five-Mile Event.

Walker Carries Off Honors in Half-Century Spin.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Kid Speed rose up and swatted Old Man Time on the flats a couple of times at Ascot yesterday.

Albert Burns saddled on an Indian, won the national twenty-five-mile event in 12m. 32s. flat, with Bob Newman, another Indian rider, second, and Otto Walker, astride a Harley-Davidson, third. Recovering from a bad start in the last lap in the first race, which did not prevent him from finishing, Otto Walker rode like a champion in the fifty-mile national race, winning first money in the dizzy time of 47m. 47s. Fred Ludlow, on the same make of machine, flashed across second, and Albert Burns, winner of the first race, riding an Indian, shot past the late third.

Track and world records were broken in this slaughter of time and speed. Burns, in the first race, shattered the former record for a mile track by better than a minute. Burns set a new record for the race to split himself all over the track, then picked himself up and finished ahead of the former world record by almost half a minute. That's what you call real trick stuff in the speed line.

In the second race Otto Walker bettered his own time made in November of 48m. 44s., which was once a track and world record for a mile course.

SPEED DUEL.

The quarter-century race, held out at an asterisk of 25.1 miles an hour, not only was one of the most sensational speed duels ever seen, but contained every element of excitement and was filled with escapes that bordered on the miraculous. Death seemed to be lurking at the riders' heels over the handle bars, for every time he missed his tackle, there were fearful consequences. Turns in which men and machines fell and slid across the track. While going at terrific speed, machines tumbling crazily, while the preposterous riders in their leather suits looked like men of something shot from a chute—such apparently lifeless, something hardly distinguishable as human—until he hit the bordered fence with heavy thud. But with the already ambulatory, throbbing, limp objects which looked so lifeless always jumped to their feet. One continued the race, and the others walked to the pits, more concerned about their mounts than themselves.

EIGHT BRUISES.

An inventory showed a couple of slight sprains and the loss of a little skin to be the only damage. These birds, though, better than eighty miles an hour, fall all over a ten-acre lot, spill burning gasoline and crash without a sound, meeting more than a skin-deep bruise, and yet only the other day a guy washing his feet slipped in a bath tub and killed himself.

It is indeed an insatiable destiny which impels the supreme penalty for washing feet, and because of it, a man who has been purging it at better than eighty miles an hour.

None of the gasoline gladiators knew what happened to them yesterday. They were like men who were riding through eternity and had only a minute to do it in.

There was a field of eleven starters in the twenty-five mile race. George Adams got the bunch away in gold shape, the back being quite grouped after a flying start. Mr. Adams had more than a switchman's dash to start and stop, danger flag, and a flag that looked like the emblem of the Continental. A stranger might have thought that George was celebrating something. His work was above reproach, as the records show he stopped every man he started, with the exception of a few who stopped against the fence. Soon after Mr. Adams had unfurled his banner, the race was over to him and sputter with activity.

IN A LUNCH.

The first time around they came down the stretch in a bunch, with a rider in red leading. This was Burns on his Indian, yet it was too early to read in the red flash harbinger of victory. Three times Burns shot by in front. Then for two laps he gave way to the red of his team-mate Newman. Almost at their rear, riding a Harley-Davidson, and indeed it was to be a race between these two down to the last yard of the quarter-century.

Challenging, but they like others, were to be reined in by the thinning field. Gene Walker, on an Indian, had isolated himself in the pits on account of a spark plug trouble as early as the second lap. Ray Wieshar, on a Harley-Davidson, was in the fourth mile when he tried to right his machine on the lower turn. It shot from under him, skidding through a mass of roaring machines, but he came out of it with only a surface bruise or two.

GUEST OF FATE.

The races were nearing the completion of the eleventh lap, when the upper and lower turns were five bursts from one of the machines. This and the one trailing it went down with their riders. One of the machines missed them by inches. One man rolled to the fence with his machine. Another lodged against the fence while his motorcycle, carrying more than a hundred feet by its own momentum, crossed the upper side of the track. Not only was it burning, but a stream of scorching gasoline ran down the track, and catching fire, formed a small barrier of flame through which the other riders had to pass. The burning machine belonged to Church. Church lit a fire, and when he started skidding, his gasoline caught fire and shot out a trail of flame. Walkers, riding a Harley-Davidson, must either strike the Church machine or the fence, unless he laid down and slid, so he deliberately tipped over his mount.

Burns still in the lead, was dislodged by Walker in the last two laps, but shot back in front in the fifteenth, never to be headed, except for a fleeting instant in the twenty-first when Newman forged into the pace-baker's position. Time and again Walker had been at the rear wheel of Burns at the upper

"RUTH NOT HARD TO HANDLE"—FRAZEE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Harry Frazee, the Red Sox owner, returned to town today after a rather stormy week in Boston following his sale of Babe Ruth to the Yankees. He declared that hundreds of Boston fans had given him their approval of the deal, agreeing that Ruth's going would be a good thing for the club, which had become a one-man team. Incidentally, Frazee added that he had been misquoted a great deal in the Boston newspapers in which he was made to say that Ruth was a disorganizer. The only impression he meant to convey was that, without the home-run king, there would be far more harmony in the club, as the rest of the players were beginning to feel that their work was being entirely ignored. Ruth, he said, had kicked over the traces frequently, but had never been difficult to handle.

BRITISH POLOISTS WIN.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CORONADO, Jan. 11.—The opening polo match at the Coronado Country Club this afternoon between the All-British and All-American teams, resulted in a one-sided score that gave an overwhelming victory to the All-British. The score was 13½ to 2½ in favor of the British. The playing of Brig.-Gen. A. C. Critchley, of the British army, the youngest brigadier-general in the army, was of unusual interest. Gen. Critchley is a splendid sportsman and a skillful player. T. B. Jenkins, of Vancouver, B. C., who played at No. 3 on the British team, played a most spectacular game, carrying the ball to goal or placing it in position for goal many times.

The All-American team lacked the teamwork that the British team showed. The players have not been working together. "Bobby" Neustadt and Reggie Wells, who played No. 1 and No. 2 on this team, arrived only yesterday from Pasadena and had not practiced with the team. Wells played a beautiful game with his usual steadiness and Neustadt rode his fast ponies in the position of No. 1.

All-British team: No. 1, G. Parsons, 4 goals; No. 2, T. B. Jenkins, 3 goals; No. 3, T. B. Jenkins, 1 goal; No. 4, T. B. Jenkins, 1 goal. Total goals: 14; penalties, Critchley, 4; net score 13½.

All-American team: No. 1, R. G. Neustadt, 1 goal; No. 2, Reggie Wells, 1 goal; No. 3, C. M. Greer, Jr., no goals; No. 4, H. Chapman, no goals. Total goals: 2; penalties, Greer safety, 1; net score 2½.

FULTON AND MORAN READY

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Fred Fulton and Frank Moran are ready for their match which will be staged Monday night in the First Regiment Armory, Newark under the auspices of the League of Sportsmen Clubs. Both men wound up their training today. Each reports himself in fine fettle so the loser can have no alibi on this score. Moran, particularly looks in great shape. He has been in almost constant training since last June when he decided to make a "come back" campaign. He declares that he is in better shape for this match than for any he has had in more than five years.

TENNIS PLAYERS HARD HIT.

Amateur tennis players who work for sporting goods houses are to be professionalized. Also the owners of such places.

Players have been whispered about for the past week or so that something was in store for the chaps who capitalize their abilities on the tennis court.

Yesterday Frank P. Bryant, president of the Southern California Lawn Tennis Association, announced that he had decided to make a change on the subject in a few days. He added: "I have been in conference with George Ade, president of the United States Tennis Association, who has been in Los Angeles for the past two weeks. He has decided to draw a line very closely. Tennis turns, only to drop back a few feet in the stretch."

BURNS LEADING.

But when the men veered into the stretch, Burns was leading probably by fifty feet. Walker, intent on closing up this distance, threw caution to the wind. Eager to see the upper turn he had gained until not more than twenty-five feet separated him from Newman. Newman was only a rod or two behind. Walker's was a forlorn hope unless Burns pulled out. Burns seemed to have the speed and had already demonstrated his mastery. Walker tried to take the turn fast, and about the middle of it the machine, careening over its side, carried its rider to the fence.

SPRING INTO SADDLE.

In an instant, Walker was back on the machine, an instant in which Newman passed him—righting his mount, sprang into the saddle and sped on. Newman was a switchman's dash to start and stop, danger flag, and a flag that looked like the emblem of the Continental. A stranger might have thought that George was celebrating something. His work was above reproach, as the records show he stopped every man he started, with the exception of a few who stopped against the fence. UNITEDS PUT IT ON SONS OF ST. GEORGE.

The crack soccer team Uniteds defeated the Sons of St. George at Exposition Park yesterday afternoon, 6 to 1. The Sons boasted only one man that was as good as any of the Uniteds—Latham. The Uniteds scored two goals in the first half and the others in the second session. The goal the Uniteds scored was from a penalty kick and was made by Latham. The Sons got a second penalty kick but missed. Five different men scored goals for the Uniteds and Brown amassed two of them.

Finish Sends Fifteen Thousand Into Thrills of Joy.

Jockeys McBride and Wood
Indulge in a Scrap.

BY ED O'MALLEY.

The popularity of horse racing was attested yesterday afternoon at Ascot Park when 15,000 throats shouted in ecstatic glee at the great finish in the Los Angeles derby between Jake Schas, La Bete Noir and Gomul. Like most of Handicapper Hayman's work of the last month, the big event was replete with thrilling action throughout and the finish was so close that none but the judges were in a position to say just who won the race.

Jake Schas, like the excellent thoroughbred that he is, set the pace again throughout. His soon discomfited Little Abe's pretensions and ran Sam Hill into the ground. After passing the far turn, Miller gave the spur to La Bete Noir and in a few strides the Kyrle gelding had reached the pacesetter's flank.

SWING WIDE.

Both Schas and Nofor swung somewhat wide turning for home and started in for what looked like a two-horse struggle to the wire, but just after striding out for the run in, Thompson shot Gomul from the back. The last named was not long in getting into a contenting position. Opposite the great mass of humanity in the bleachers, the three thoroughbreds settled down into one of the most magnificent equine battles ever seen on the Coast.

Bleachers and grand stand vied with each other in shouting lustily for horse and jockey to put forth their best efforts. The three riders bent forward with all the energy this match had for any he has had in more than five years.

SHOWS TRUE BLUE.

Suddenly, Nolan on Jake Schas, about six strides from the wire, lurched forward on the gelding's neck; brought the whip down with a resounding crack, and the high-class racer showing the true blue, responded with a will, bobbing his head in the air and his legs in the margin before La Bete Noir who finished a nose in front of Gomul.

The three contestants were out to the last ounce and nothing but the might of unflinching gameness kept the rule of the trio home.

For some moments afterward thousands who had gotten a real kick out of the struggle, voiced their approval by a loud chatter of running comment and it was agreed on all sides that the race was one that would live in local turf annals for many days. The time was 1:41 4-5.

A HOUR IN DEED.

Miss Anita Stewart was the hour that presided over the destinies of the second race of which she turned out to be another of these heart failures that have characterized the closing stages of many races at the present meeting. Latham and Thompson thundered over the line as if pasted together. Stewart, who by the way, had the tenacity before the race to pick Thompson as the winner, thought her choice had won. However, by a majority of one in the judge's decision, Latham was declared the victor. I. W. Harper was third.

"Over a course and his shapely neck bedecked with a floral wreath, said Miss Stewart to take the turn too fast, and about the middle of it the machine, careening over its side, carried its rider to the fence."

GRIFITH PARK GOLF.

It is seldom in any tournament that fourth-flight matches create more than a passing interest to any but those immediately concerned, but in the Tufts trophy tournament at the Griffith Park municipal links the match in the semifinals between Ben Griffith and his young son Ben kept everybody waiting to learn the result.

The old man had to start the younger 4 up. He overcame this handicap at the sixteenth hole and was 1 up.

Then—did his fatherly heart soften? Anyway, Benjie won both the seventeenth and eighteenth and the victory 1 up and was showered with congratulations from the waiting fellow golfers.

JOCKEYS SCRAP.

The final race, a five furlong scramble, was won by Nettle Walcutt, with Clear Lake second and J. D. Sugas third. Sugas finished first, but was disqualified because of fouling. Jockeys McBride and Wood indulged in a little game of cat-and-mouse in a tenth from home close to the rail. The majority of the judges thought that McBride was to blame—hence the disqualification. It was the first disqualification of the meeting. Time 1:01.

Now for something entirely different at Ascot Speedway. Following the motorcycle races yesterday afternoon, the Los Angeles Automobile Association, announced that in addition to six running races next Sunday, there would be introduced to Los Angeles a reproduction of an aerial battle seen on the west front in the big war.

CRASHING OF HUN.

There will be four races arranged in the combat which will be almost an hour in length, ending with the crashing of the Hun plane. The pilots will be w-time aviators and the planes will be equipped with the machine guns, bomb apparatus and other war paraphernalia for annihilation.

CHAMPION CUP.

N. M. Gould led the three-week contestants in this event, winning a leg on the trophy.

MEXICAN LIES SOWING HATRED.

Highly-Colored Accounts of Texas Murder Cases.

Effort is to Stir Pans to Americanism.

Pretext Offered is Slight, Eagerly Seized.

GEORGETOWN (Tex.) Jan. 11.—

Copies of City of Mexico newspapers have been distributed here by a family of Mexican bandits near Jarrell, about ten miles north of here on the night of December 22. It is set forth in the published accounts that the bandits were "American patriots" which theory is not supported by any circumstantial evidence that was done by Mexicans. It is stated that there are not even have not been for many years American bandits in this part of Texas; neither is there any here any ill feeling toward Mexicans. Two Mexicans—men and —have been arrested in connection of having had a hand in the murders.

The victims of the murders were Anastacio Flores, 10 years and 16-year-old daughter. They were killed with an ax. The City of Mexico newspapers give an account of the assassinations but gives what purports to be evidence of which one has been account of other crimes
—of which one has been any knowledge of ever having occurred. It says:

"Official reports have been received from the agents of the government at San Antonio and El Paso, Texas, that on January 1, 1919, four Mexican citizens were assassinated by American bandits who were in the employ of the government."

"The bandits, who were checked, big bows knives and other weapons, were seen by the citizens of the town of Jarrell, Texas, where several families resided."

Shrine Auditorium Burns to the Ground; Origin of Costly Blaze Mystifies Investigators.

FAMED PILE IS GUTTED BY FIRE.

Place of Unknown Origin Destroys Building While Many Thousand Persons Look on; Loss Estimated at Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars.

Shrine Auditorium, for more than twelve years an architectural and historical landmark and largest hall in Los Angeles, was burned to the ground by a fire that started a few minutes before 11 p. m. yesterday. Up to a late hour last night neither the police nor the fire department was able to state with certainty what was responsible for the flames.

In addition to the loss on the auditorium, tentatively estimated at close to $175,000 on the building and contents, eight persons were injured, one of them probably fatally; a dozen others had narrow escape from death, and practically every building in the block bounded by Jefferson, Figueroa and Thirty-second streets was either threatened or damaged by fire and water. The loss may amount to a considerably larger figure, as no one was prepared last night to estimate the loss on the uniforms stored in the auditorium.

According to G. A. Fitch, Recorder of Al Malaikah Temple, the records of the organization have been stored at some distance from the auditorium, and so are safe.

Minutes before the firemen arrived, the Al Malaikah Auditorium Association, the holding company controlling Shrine Auditorium, stated, after hearing Mr. Starkey's statement, that he did not believe gas explosion caused the fire. He was reinforced in this belief by the statements of officials of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation and other gas company experts, who stated that their investigation, so far as they have been able to make it, did not show any signs of a gas explosion sufficient to have caused the amazing spread of the flames.

None of the persons living in the block heard any explosion, they told Detective Sergeant James P. Bean of the police department's arson squad, and Detective Sergeant Ritch, who made the initial investigation for the police.

At the fire department's headquarters it was stated last night that no official cause of the fire would be made until the experts of the department and of the Fire Prevention Bureau had a chance to examine the debris this morning. Reports of two distinct explosions and of puffs of black smoke over the building were received by fire officials.

The police report on file at the University station last night stated the cause of the fire as "gas heater."

A few hours after the fire was out, Directors Louis M. Cole, W. H. Harrison, William F. Jeffries and Robert A. Haffner, and Secretary George A. Fitch of the Al Malaikah Auditorium Association, made a joint statement in which they expressed their conviction that the fire was caused by a defective heater and was not of incendiary origin.

"We feel certain that the fire was of an accidental origin. The arrangement of the heaters, the near-by wood work and the other facts in connection with the fire seem to explain the spread with which it spread," they said.

What the fire was still burning, and the few remaining corners of the building, were still burning.

STRUCTURE NOTED FOR IMPORTANT MEETINGS.

SHRINERS' ROBES, REGALIA DESTROYED; VALUABLE RECORDS SAVED.

Shrine Auditorium was built in 1907 by a holding corporation known as the Al Malaikah Auditorium Association, an organization of local Shriners. Motley H. Flint is treasurer, George A. Fitch, secretary and W. H. Harrison, William F. Jeffries, Louis M. Cole and Robert A. Haffner, directors.

The structure, which was faced with brick and had hardwood floors, covered a ground area of about 400 was capable of seating between 5000 and 6000 people. Its original cost was $125,000. The loss is fully covered by insurance. Directors of the association were not sure last night whether or not a new auditorium will be built.

Secretary Fitch stated that in its twelve years of use Shrine Auditorium rendered an important service in the community and was a self-sustaining institution, since it served as a public meeting place whenever large assemblages occurred. Prominent statesmen and national figures such as President Wilson, former President William Howard Taft and Charles Evans Hughes have spoken there, and prominent operatic stars have sung there. It also has been the scene of many brilliant social gatherings.

Shrine Auditorium was the meeting place of Al Malaikah Shrine, and all the rich and gorgeous robes of the Shriners were kept in lockers there. Secretary Fitch stated last night that to the best of his knowledge all the robes and regalia were destroyed. He was unable to estimate the value of the regalia, but ventured the assertion that it would run into many thousands of dollars, perhaps $5000 or more.

CHURCH HAILS BIRTHDAY.

Forty-sixth Anniversary Celebrated by First Presbyterian Congregation.

Large congregations assembled yesterday at the First Presbyterian Church to celebrate the forty-sixth anniversary of the institution. The church was founded in 1874 by Rev. Thomas Frazer, with eight members on the charter roll. Yesterday, at the services presided over by Dr. Hugh K. Walker, the present pastor, 500 members joined with him in prayers of gratitude for the long spiritual career of the church and to express their joy over the fact that the last penny of the $14,000 indebtedness on the edifice and the property has been paid. In the congregation were many former members eager to honor the birthday of the mother church of First Presbyterianism in Los Angeles.

The feast of rejoicing was continued at the church last night, when Mayor Snyder, President Moore of the southern branch of the University of California, James G. Warren and other prominent citizens addressed the congregation. Responding to an introduction by Dr. Walker, Mayor Snyder spoke at length on "The Church and the City," pleading with the members of all religious denominations to support the city officials in their efforts to enforce the laws.

President Moore, in his address on "The Church and the School," declared that the church has always been a teacher, because the glorying history of the First Presbyterian Church from the time when the first eight members held worship in Good Templar Hall, until the present date, when, free of all indebtedness, the members are worshipping in their $50,000 edifice, built twenty years ago.

BROUGHER TO STAY HERE.

Turns Down Syracuse Offer: His Action
Causes Joyous Demonstration.

Dr. James Whitcomb Brougner, known to thousands here and in all parts of the United States as one of the leading divines of the Baptist denomination, and as the head of one of the largest churches in America, is to remain in Los Angeles as pastor of the Temple Baptist Church.

This announcement came from Dr. Brougner himself yesterday, amid enthusiasm and rejoicing seldom before equaled in the annals of the church, and before a congregation that packed solidly the big auditorium at Fifth and Olive streets for the morning services, preceded and followed by prolonged applause and singing of praise.

Dr. Brougner's decision to remain with his church and refuse the call of the First Church of Syracuse, N. Y., was the subject of the adoption by the congregation of resolutions increasing his salary to $10,000 a year, effective October 1, and providing for a number of important changes in the executive

HE'S TO KEEP EUROPE WARM.

Angeleno is Named as Head of Coal Commission.

Resigns Railroad Job to Take up New Duties.

Represents Italy, England and France in Work.

Having been chosen as president of the Central Europe Coal Commission, which now has charge of all bituminous coal mining and distributing operations in Russia, Lieut. Col. H. C. Nutt has resigned as general manager of the Salt Lake Route, it was announced yesterday by J. Ross Clark, second vice-president of the company. He stated Col. Nutt's successor will doubtless be chosen before the lines are released from government control, March 1.

Col. Nutt is one of the best-known railroad men in the West, and was for many years connected with the Salt Lake Route. Early in 1918 he was given a leave of absence that he might take up war work, and at that time he went to Washington as chairman of the southern committee of the Council of National Defense. Shortly afterward he was commissioned a major, and sent to France, where he served as deputy director-general of transportation with the railroad remnants, later being promoted to lieutenant-colonel.

In that capacity it was his duty to keep troops, ammunition, and food moving to the front without interruption. Under him were transportation officers at each military junction point, who helped to keep the cars moving. This work played a prominent part in the winning of the war.

Col. Nutt's selection as head of the coal commission, which represents Italy, England and France, came as a result of his success as a railroad manager in France. In his present position he is responsible for the mining and the use of 145,000 tons of soft coal a day. This is being used to keep Europe warm during the winter months.

PRESERVE BALBOA PARK.

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 11.—A committee of citizens, headed by John Forward, is planning to preserve the exposition buildings in Balboa Park permanently. An estimate made today for the committee by Frank Allen, one of the original architects of the exposition, sets the sum at $1,000,000 that is necessary to place the buildings in repair to preserve them fifty years. One of the plans is to make a civic music auditorium of the beautiful Southern Counties building.

Your Children Need The NEW EDISON

Are your children to know more of music than past generations of Americans? If so, what musical education have you planned for them? Perhaps your youngsters are to develop their vocal or instrumental talent. At least you want them to enjoy a musical atmosphere in their home. Is either case, can your home afford to be without the New Edison?

The New Edison develops in the child love and appreciation of music. It contributes to the culture of your children. It enables you to detect signs of musical talent, if such talent exists.

Ask your music teacher about the value of the New Edison. The New Edison will impress upon the sensitive child-mind an appreciation of music in its purest, highest form.

The People and Their Troubles

At What Age Are Women Most Interesting?

J. HARTLEY MANNERS.
Playwright.

MY DARK DIXON.
"When is a woman most interesting? The question answers itself. A woman is most interesting when she is—INTERESTING. Each age has its own peculiar interest. Any time between the rising and the setting sun—that is woman."—J. Hartley Manners.

Would you not say the man who created a fascinating somebody like "Peg of My Heart" out of the fabric of his imagination ought to know much of the charm of woman?

"Peg" has been loved as no other woman of modern fiction. Folk from the more mundane stage or real life have laughed at her, wept with her and left with a fragrant memory of her hovering around their hearts like the scent of old lavender in grandmother's bridal chest.

Behold, then, the parent of "Peg"—paternal parent—Mr. J. Hartley Manners.

Mr. Manners is a playwright. He is a builder of romance.

I caught Mr. Manners at the Criterion Theater, New York City, where his latest play, "One Night in Rome," is landing itself to the brilliant interpretation of that delightful comedienne, Miss Laurette Taylor.

The playwright received me in the green room adjoining Miss Taylor's dressing-room.

Hold! No lifting of eyebrows, please. The merry little star with the note of pathos in her voice is, in private life, a happy and devoted wife. Mrs. J. Hartley Manners by name. The Taylor-Manners combine is not for stage purposes only. It is for home use as well.

"My word," exclaimed Mr. Manners, when I explained what I had come to ask. "When are women most interesting? That is rather an awkward question, isn't it? One scarcely would dare risk answering it, would he—with his wife in the next room?"

"Now Hartley," came a laughing voice from behind the dressing-room door. "You know you are not competent to answer. How could you when you've had only one wife?"

"You see," agreed the accused. "Mrs. Manners is right. I am a poor judge, a very poor judge."

"But surely," I pleaded. "You might mention some one age when woman is more attractive than another?"

"Yes, I might, but—"

"Poor Hartley," from the other side of the door—"It took him ten years to get his wife into the twenty, decadent, doomed world. I shouldn't care for it. Most unhappy sort of place.

"Mothers! No man will deny their blessed interest. It is as a mother the woman reaches the very pinnacle of her womanhood. It is now she has fulfilled her mission as a woman. She has paid her debt to man and God. She has made the supreme sacrifice, given the supreme gift. Admirable age, the age of wife and mother."

"I thought I heard a rustling on the other side of the door, but I could not be sure. Mr. J. Hartley Manners did not seem to notice. He was immersed in his subject."

"Above all, a woman is most interesting when, as a complete woman, she wields the full power of effort and influence and shares in the destiny not only of her family, but of her country."

There was no mistaking the rustle now. It grew into a muffled applause. Apparently the Taylor half of the combination approved of the Manners handling of the topic.

"I never realize the value of a good woman so much as when I see her in the midst of her family, using her mature mother influence to secure for her family the greatest possible amount of success and happiness," continued the speaker. "I might say never so much with but one exception—and that is when she is a mother."

"But Hartley," from the other side of the door, "you've named three distinct ages and you've said each one was the most interesting." Mr. Manners smiled. His dark eyes danced a whimsical delight. His boyish face was mellowed by laugh furrows. He ran his hand over his dark hair to smooth out the curl that had surreptitiously crept in and there was triumph in his voice, as of a man who has saved a delicate situation and disposed of it creditably.

"Exactly," he murmured. "I've named four ages, and every one of them is the most interesting. What I mean is interest can never be a question of age."

"I can spend hours playing with a little girl, a child of twelve, and she will give me more interest than to have an entire afternoon in which to chat with a grandmother, providing she is an interesting grandmother."

The woman who desires to be interesting should study herself. She should discover her most beautiful feature on earth, who was neither interested nor interesting, would bore me to death in five minutes. The woman who desires to be interesting should study herself.

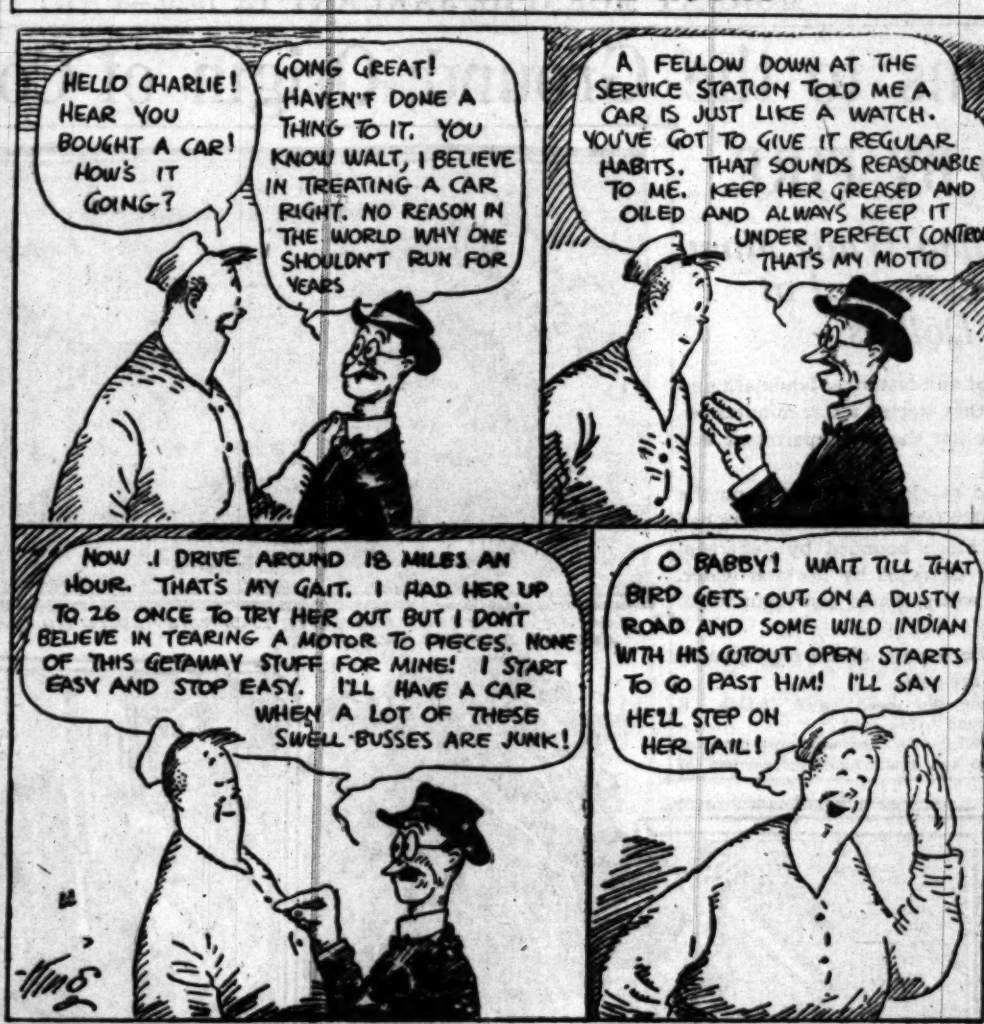

"Why Hartley," a face with wide gray eyes and hair inclined to wave in the doorway. "I never suspected you thought so seriously on this subject."

Playwright Manners smiled like a bashful boy at a kissing party. "Neither did I," he said.

To Marnette Peace.

Lots of married people might study harmony without taking music lessons.—(Boston Transcript.)

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES"

Will Go Abroad.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I fully agree with Stokes Anthony Bennett, when stating that we are sadly in need of a rent profiteering board.

I know scores of people who have arrived in Los Angeles recently to spend the winter, and perhaps make their homes here, but were caused away by the outrageous rents demanded. Their farewell to Los Angeles nearly always sounded something as follows: "Next winter we will spend in Southern France, Italy or Algiers, where we will get more fun for our money than we possibly could expect in this dry, profiteering burg. We can get there our own races, and all other possible amusements, a glorious climate and all the wine and beer our heart may desire, for less money than we would have to spend here just for your sunshine."

I am very much afraid that Los Angeles has killed the goose that laid the golden eggs, by its unwarranted rent-profiteering.

THOMAS TOROR.

Let George Do It.

VENICE, Jan. 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Permit me to congratulate you upon the appearance of the first page of your today's issue. International news of first importance and American political movements which are of vital significance—these make good reading. For the salacious stuff, the "sordid and disgusting details" you have to turn over a few pages! Why not put it out altogether, Mr. Editor—or rather, since in a way it is news, give it a much more subordinate place than you do. Let the Examiner have the monopoly of the filthy garbage. Surely you believe that there are enough people in the great city of Los Angeles who prefer the Times to the Examiner largely because of the fact that the former is less of a purveyor of smut than the latter. Why not gradually decrease that purveyor's output? You will find the response on the part of the clean-minded American public of Los Angeles and vicinity to be instant and appreciative.

is not the best sort of advertisement of Los Angeles to dish up, for the consumption of Middle West and Eastern readers, the go-lash of murder, adultery, scandal and rotten news.

Which are being uncovered, as a stink in decent folk's nostrils, in a city the size of Los Angeles. As I said before, leave it to the Examiner and Herald.

SHULTON HIRSCH.

Keep 'Em Apart.

SANTA MONICA, Jan. 9.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have here a startling quotation from Arthur Brisbane's "Today" column of the Examiner, in which he refers to a divorce granted a woman because she discovered her husband was a mulatto and not an Indian as he had told her he was. Mr. Brisbane asks why negroes should be less acceptable to the white race than Indians, and answers his own question by saying that "labor as yet is not really respectable—negroes work, Indians do not."

It is scarcely possible that Mr. now.

ANTI-ASIATICS IN BIG DRIVE.

Ten Thousand Members in Six Months, Their Goal.

Speakers' Bureau to Supply Demand for Orators.

Will Also Further Facts on Land Settlement Work.

A drive for 10,000 new members in six months was launched yesterday by the Los Angeles Anti-Asiatic Association. R. L. Hanley was made chairman of a membership committee, and preliminary work indicates the first large number of members will come from the ranks of the Southern California Retail Grocers' Association, of which Neal P. Olsen is secretary. Mr. Olsen says the small grocers of the county have been seriously hurt by the competition of the Japanese, who keep open from early morning until nearly midnight.

Bert Farmer, treasurer of the organization, stated he had received a large number of contributions, and he was made head of the finance committee. He will select his assistants within a few days, and is confident they will include prominent professional and business men, who have indicated they are in sympathy with this work. This was found necessary, the director says, because of the constantly increasing number of calls for men who can discuss the question intelligently and point out the serious proportions of the Japanese invasion in California.

Secretary W. D. Gilman was instructed to write to every County Clerk in Oregon, Washington and Nevada, asking for data concerning the number of Japanese who have applied for letters of guardianship for their minor children. Under the law, minor children are American citizens, and are entitled to all privileges of citizenship, with the right to vote when they attain the majority. He believes he can get this information within two weeks. He will also get complete data on the extent and operation of the work of the California Settlement Board at and in the vicinity of Durham. Former U. S. Senator Frank F. Flint is the Southern California member of the board. The Legislature has appropriated $1,250,000 with which agricultural land is being purchased and resold to a selected number of applicants, who repay the State within thirty-one years.

MADGE AND JUMBO.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

Running an elephant must be an exciting career, says Madge Kennedy, who having just finished working with one in Wallace Irwin's "The Bloomin' Angel," out at the Goldwyn studio, really ought to know. In fact she says when she gets old and has nothing else to do, she means to cultivate an elephant or two. Just meeting an elephant professionally, that way, when you've never met an elephant before, is exciting, she says, and it must be great to run one all the time!

Though never meeting the elephant socially outside the studio, she says, Miss Kennedy has formulated some rules of elephant etiquette, also has catalogued some scientific facts, founded on her own experiences, which she passes along for what they are worth to other actors who may have need of them.

Never, for instance, she says, put the center of the stage with a large, healthy elephant, nor show any professional jealousy. Every act of him, remember, even a long-distance one, is bound to be a close-up anyway.

Don't try to steal his style. He won't like it and the public won't either.

ANTI-TOBACCONIST.

Never mix tobacco with his peanuts. An elephant always appears to have promised his aged mother he'd never smoke or chew.

If he doesn't fancy his make-up, let him eat it off.

Never pull out an elephant's trunk and snap it back. It makes him peevish.

Let him have his elephant pal along if he wants to. Naturally an elephant wants to get what he thinks of as extra oil on his chest.

Talk baby to an elephant. He likes it, and he's the one to be pleased, believe me, even if folks outside do scoff when you call him "a pitty, 'itty, tweet sing!"

Never argue with an elephant about a pose he takes, especially when he has his foot up over your head. Ten to one he knows more about natural elephant attitudes than you do.

"When they told me I was going to work with an elephant, I told 'em all right. Though no animal trainer, I promised I'd be kind to him, and he'll tell you himself I never raised a hand to him!"

"Never shall I forget that morning he rolled into the picture and was introduced, and though they told me I might shake hands with him, I didn't. He gave me a cold and disapproving look. I don't believe he liked my dress or something. Then he rubbed out his trunk for the cherries on my hat, and I told him as best I could his poor human way to help himself. I don't know whether he ate those cherries because he didn't like the looks of them on my hat, or whether he really liked the taste."

ATE FUNNY THINGS.

"He ate funny things anyhow. That very day he knocked over the fruit cart we used in the picture and ate all the fruit, devouring also the fruit-man's straw hat and the papers that came round the oranges. I have made a note in my naturalist notebook as a result which states 'Elephants are sometimes crossed with goats.' I think that is a very clever scientific discovery. You may have it for what it is worth."

"Another thing I learned about elephants. They disdain the actor's calling. The day I found this out is the way Charlie acted. He took make-up. He turned his trunk disdainfully over his back and blew it all off. And he didn't like the bow of ribbon that was tied around his neck. He felt his dignity was injured. In fact, I don't think he ever be the same elephant again."

And an elephant likes to have his pal about, says Miss Kennedy.

"Charlie refused to faint that day, as you remember the elephant in 'The Bloomin' Angel' did. He just pretended he didn't understand, and none of us felt in a position to tell him he was a liar. Next day they brought his brother, and he did all the stunts required. I think he wanted to be able to talk to a relative about us, so as to be able to stand our company."

"They say it's good luck to have an elephant like you. It certainly would be bad luck if he didn't when we were working in a picture with him!"

WILDCAT WORK REVIVES HOPE.

Standard's Trial Near Taft is Eagerly Watched.

Earp Syndicate Relocates Old Shasta Property.

New Producer at Montebello, Drill at Inglewood.

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 10.—Hopes of many small land owners in territory located northeast of Taft are being revived in the activity of the Standard Oil Company, which is making an effort to prove up a wider area in the Elk Hills district of Kern county. It has just started drilling a test well on section 26-14, six miles due east of its big well on section 24-22, at the southeast corner of the Elk Hills. This action points to the belief that the Elk Hills section extends far to the east. This section is just outside the naval reserve and is patented land. There has been a report that the government is contemplating some sort of action to stop the draining of lands to which it asserts title, but owners of property adjoining do not seem to fear this, but continue drilling operations, except in one instance.

The Southern Pacific has removed from section 21, 20-24, Elk Hills, the rig timbers and other materials placed there some time ago with the intention of starting drilling. The land is just east of and adjoining the scene of the Standard's operations on section 24-22. Despite the Southern Pacific's loss of land by a recent ruling, it still retains three sections adjoining the Standard's Elk Hills property.

OLD SHASTA OIL COMPANY.

The old Shasta Oil Company property located west of the proven Kern River field, has been relocated by Wyatt Earp, pioneer mining man of Tombstone, Ariz. H. Rodgers, Sara Campbell and Edna Cowling. The property, a 160-acre tract, was believed worthless except for sheep raising, but in the past few months the Standard and the Associated Oil companies have carried on an active drilling campaign in this section and indications are that a lake of oil lies beneath the surface. Should this prove a fact, the location of the old Shasta property will have valuable holdings.

The Standard has recently brought in a well on Fox Creek, near the property and is drilling other wells. Mr. Stephens and Mrs. Stephens have leased an oil right of way to the Union Oil Company on property owned by them in section 35, 16-18 near McFarland.

A group of Taft oil operators have purchased the 160-acre tract in Glenn county, paying cash. The property is known whether the men contemplate prospecting for oil.

It is known that the men own the oil right of way to the property. The Standard has resumed drilling on its South Mountain property and is drilling a well as a preliminary essential for going down to the bottom.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The week in the stock market ended very much in the fashion that it began, interest continuing to concentrate in the more speculative shares.

Early gains of one to nearly four points were registered by steel, equipments, motors and some of the oils, shippings, metals and prominent specialties including American Woolen, helped the movement along at similar gains with a few of the low-priced rails.

All advances were forfeited in the final dealings, however, the whole list reacting sharply under lead of the oils. The tone at the close was very irregular, declines prevailing.

CHRISTEN RIG WITH HIGH-POWERED SPIRITS

DRILLING FOR OIL IN MANY ARIZONA DISTRICTS IS NOW UNDER WAY.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

CHLOVIRIDE (ARIZ.) Jan. 9.—Boring was started on New Year's Day in the Chloviride-Kerwin oil field by the Colorado River Oil and Gas Company, a concern mainly financed in this camp. There was formal christening of the drilling rig by Mrs. Florence Duncan of Los Angeles, who, in default of champagne, used a bottle of a well-known preparation that is understood to have high alcoholic strength. The day was made a picnic occasion by a large number of Chloviride investors, headed by Engineer S. Ford Eaton. E. M. Kidder, a Pacific coast driller also has been engaged.

BUCKEYE (ARIZ.) Jan. 9.—The old well of the Palo Verde Oil Company, work on which was stopped at slight depth, is to be started afresh with new equipment that will cost $5000 and be capable of going 2000 feet, if found necessary. A skilled driller also has been engaged. The fact that the well is in an agricultural and alluvial valley appears to not diminish in the least the zeal of the operators.

DOUGLAS (ARIZ.) Jan. 9.—Five hundred local people, investors in oil locations in the San Bernardino field, are encouraged by a report just made by Geologist Donald MacKenzie. He states that the showings of large deposits of rich gasiferous limestones and shales indicate that oil may be expected at a depth of about 2000 feet.

ON FAMED PLACERS.

Work to be Resumed Where Seven Million Dollars was Found.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

GREATERTON (ARIZ.) Jan. 11.—Renewed activity is promised in the famous old Greatertown placers, in which has come gold valued at $7,000,000. The MacKenzie group of patented claims has been bonded by a St. Louis organization, reported to have taken over also the Escondido claims. No announcement has been made of future operation, save that the ground is to be sampled thoroughly.

In the same section, thirty miles south of the Southern Pacific station at Yail, the Liberty company is operating the St. Louis group, developing an eight-foot ledge of gold-silver-lead ore, stated to be amply rich for shipment. The Hancock Pacific Coast has been bonded to W. B. Cottrell, who has built a mill. The Yuba has been bonded by J. W. Anderson to E. W. Fodgett. High-grade silver-lead ore, stated to be amply rich for shipment, has been bonded to the Conglomerate group by J. E. Anderson and Grant B. Culley.

Fresno County, one of the five richest agricultural counties in the United States, with an area of almost three times the size of the State of Delaware. The principal products of the County are fruit, stock, grain and oil. The diversity of its products is evidenced from the fact that its principal crops (in which crop it stands foremost in the world) is only approximately 10% of its total production.

The County is traversed by the main lines of the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe Railroads.

Fresno, the county seat, has a population of approximately 40,000 and is one of the most important substantial inland cities of California.

At prices to yield 4.80%

We consider this offering most attractive at this price owing to the small debt and the wealth of this County, which is one of the most attractive and productive in the State of California.
